The Rural Development Policy 2030(RDP 2030) has envisaged a "Prosperous, Inclusive, Sustainable and Holistic Rural Living" as the main agenda of rural development approach in Malaysia by 2030. The "Prosperous Rural Living" vision reflects the Government's aspiration to ensure rural communities have access to infrastructure and social amenities comparable to the urban communities. The 21st Century Village Programme is a strategic initiative to transform the rural area into successful economic hubs as outlined under Thrust 1, RDP 2030: To achieve a competitive and sustainable economy. Introduced in 2013, the main objectives of the programme are to enhance the capability of rural communities in planning and implementing business ventures in their village as well as to develop viable economic activities which leads to job opportunities and wealth creation by utilizing community cooperatives as an essential vehicle/mover.

The 21st Century Village Programme is also a comprehensive and integrated approach to rural development as it comprises of development in all aspects of economic, infrastructure and human capital. Through the programme, the rural economic sector is further strengthened in close collaboration with ministries, regional development authorities and various government agencies at the Federal and State level together with rural villages across the country. It empowers rural and community leaders and villagers to actively participate in the planning and implementation of economic projects in their respective regions. Villages are rigorously assessed upon nomination by the State Agencies/State Governments based on the following criteria:

- Award-winning villages with strong leadership and active youth participation in economic and social activities of the community.
- Robust, viable and innovative economic business proposal in livestock/agriculture/retail/tourism/manufacturing sector.
- Basic infrastructure and facilities (roads, electricity, water supply, and social amenities).

Upon successful selection, villages are awarded grants to implement their business ventures and is expected to achieve the following performance target:

- 70% of the cooperatives is able to generate income after a year of implementation; and At least five (5) new jobs are created in each village after a year of implementation.

The 21st Century Village Programme is one of the model rural development programmes in Malaysia that embraces the principle of community-driven development. By using cooperative as a platform, the programme ensures high participation from the members of the communities from the planning, implementation up to monitoring and evaluation stages. Since its inception, a total of 137 villages have been selected to participate in the programme. There are many success stories of the cooperatives which has created spill over effect to the villagers, not only through creation of jobs but also through an increase in well-being among rural communities. Under the 12th Malaysian Plan, the programme will resume until 2025 and is expected to benefit up to 200 villages and ultimately achieve the RDP 2030 mission of "Leading the Rural Development."
