CIRDAP–Voice of Rural Communities

The Centre on Integrated Rural Development for Asia and the Pacific (CIRDAP) is a Regional, Intergovernmental and Autonomous organisation. It was established on 6 July 1979 at the initiative of the countries of the Asia-Pacific region and the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) of the United Nations with support from several other UN bodies and donors. The Centre came into being to meet the felt needs of the developing countries at that time as an institution for promoting Integrated Rural Development in the region.

From the original six members, CIRDAP has now grown up as a Centre of 15 member countries. The member-countries are Afghanistan, Bangladesh (Host Country), Fiji, India, Indonesia, IR Iran, Lao PDR, Malaysia, Myanmar, Nepal, Pakistan, Philippines, Sri Lanka, Thailand and Vietnam.

The main objectives of CIRDAP are to:

- (i) assist national action;
- (ii) Promote regional cooperation; and
- (iii) Act as a servicing institution for its member countries for promotion: integrated rural development (IRD) through research, action research, pilot project, training, and information dissemination. Amelioration of rural poverty in the Asia-Pacific region has been the prime concern of CIRDAP.

The programme priorities of CIRDAP are set under four Areas of Concern:

- 1) Agrarian Development;
- 2) Institutional/ Infrastructural;
- 3) Resource development including human resources; and
- 4) Employment.

Within these Areas of Concern, the thematic areas identified are: Poverty alleviation through participatory approaches with emphasis on social sector development (e.g. health, education and nutrition); Employment generation through microcredit support, infrastructure development and local resource mobilisation; Gender issues; Governance issues; and Environmental concerns for sustainable rural development.

Operating through designated Contact Ministries and Link Institutions in member countries, CIRDAP promotes technical cooperation among nations of the region. It plays a supplementary and reinforcing role in supporting and furthering the effectiveness of integrated rural development programmes in the Asia-Pacific region.

Voice of CIRDAP – Monthly e-Bulletin of CIRDAP

Voice of CIRDAP (VoC) is a monthly newsletter published by CIRDAP. The purpose of the VoC is to highlight various facets of IRD in the Asia-Pacific region and activities of CIRDAP with stakeholders.

The designations employed and the presentation of materials in VoC do not imply the expression of any opinion whatsoever on the part of CIRDAP concerning the legal status of any country, city or area, or of its authorities or boundaries. News items, viewpoints on IRD and related issues are welcome. All correspondence should be addressed to the Editor.

Dear Partners,

I am happy to share the Second Edition of Voice of CIRDAP with you all. Rural Development depends on prosperity of villages. Agriculture development is central to village prosperity. Unabated fragmentation of land due to legal and social reasons, making Agriculture poorer and unprofitable. The problem is aggravated by raising cost of inputs and laborers. This development is discouraging young and educated to stay back in villages. The migration of rural youth to urban areas in search of jobs is turning villages as old age homes. This migration has also affected urban development.

Bringing smart technologies to Agriculture and Creating urban facilities in rural areas is expected to reduce the migration of youth from rural areas. Social mobilization of youth into groups, introducing high production technologies to Agriculture, Skilling Youths and linking them to urban market directly may be effective in this direction. Food processing not only create jobs for rural population, reduce the wastage, ensure the profitability in Agriculture and acceptability of rural products in urban areas. Rural Women can greatly contribute in this sector. Rural Tourism of Malaysia, rich handicraft of Iran like additional income generating activities definitely attract and retain youth in village. Slowly, it may lead to reverse migration relieving costly and congested cities. Malaysia made a mark in promoting urban facilities in rural areas and removing the rural tag gradually has significantly contributed for retention of youth in villages. Can we provide urban facilities in rural areas?

Wish you wonderful month.

Integrated Rural Development (IRD) Model of Fiji: A Good Practice for future

The Lomani Gau project was created over a decade ago in the fifth largest island in Fiji, Gau which is in the Lomaiviti Archipelago and is a biodiversity hot spot. This initiative coordinated community-led conservation, sustainable development and regenerative management efforts - to strengthen their custodianship responsibilities to the land and its surrounding marine environment, which they hold in trust for future generations.

The main objectives of the Lomani Gau project are to make Gau Island a model for climate change adaptation in small islands in transition from subsistence to commercial and economically viable rural development; and to conduct participatory learning and action training workshops and meetings to raise climate change awareness and stimulate self-determined climate change adaptation responses.

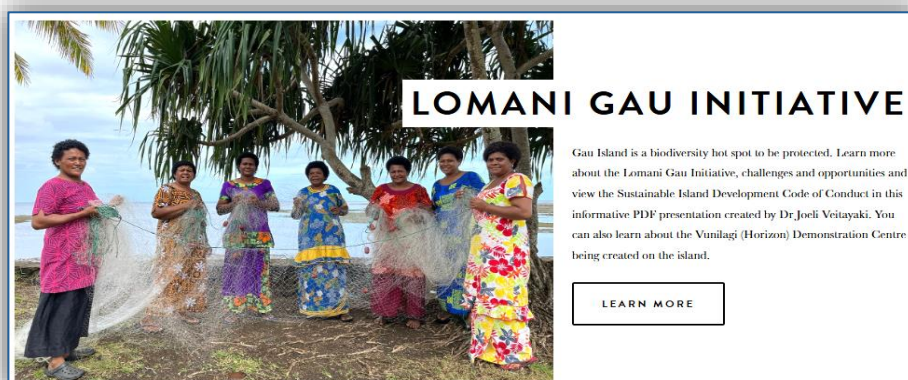

- Formulate and implement Gau Island climate change adaptation and sustainable development guidelines;
- Rehabilitate important natural habitats under increasing threat from human activities;
- Reduce environmental degradation of natural habitats;
- Use science and appropriate technologies to determine sustainable use of island resources;

- Build capacity and promote good environmental resource use practices within Gau;
- Promote integrated resource management and iterative learning;
- Facilitate development of alternative sources of livelihood and income, monitoring and enforcement through regular follow-up and applied research activities;
- Publicise the villagers, their flora and fauna, local culture, traditions, and way of life in Gau, and their importance;
- Promote project features through publications and the production of visual aids.

Rural Development Approach

Improve governance; Empower and support local communities; Meet people's development aspiration; Articulate 'measurable sustainable development'; Integrate customary and modern sustainable development practices; Enhance economic prosperity; Properly use and protect natural resources; Rehabilitate degraded environment resources; Improve 'the quality of life for all'; Promote innovation in sustainable rural development.

Accomplishments in Gau

- Marine Managed Areas (MMAs) in all 16 villages;
- People empowered, supported and organised – Lomani Gau, youth, women, rural development and livelihood initiatives, ban destructive fishing practices and wildfires, rehabilitation of coastal and riverine vegetation;
- Enhanced human capacity through training;
- Set up institutions and support champions and role models;
- Support self-help activities;
- Enhance community-based effort through financial and technical advice;
- Get people to invest in the future;
- Secure external funding for community development;
- Promote sustainable technologies; and
- Publicize, share and promote the experience.

Special attraction of the CIRDAP-INFRA International Training on Rural Tourism: The Homestay

As a part of field visit, the participants of the training programme visited several homestays in Malaysia. Homestay programme is a community-based programme where the hosts and the visitors interact each other during the stay of the guests on day-to-day basis exchanging knowledge, culture and experience. It offers different types of activities, depending on the culture, food, economic activity as well as location.

Every state in Malaysia has its own uniqueness in terms of culture, ranging from the nasi dagang in Kelantan to the sumazau dance in Sabah, as well as the long houses in Sarawak. The Homestay day started with a class room session from INFRA on empowering rural homestay entrepreneurs. The day also featured hands-on field activities, adding a rewarding experience! Time to time participants were sharing their knowledge and experiences. The program ended with an exciting cultural program and dinner with exclusive local foods.
